

CAMP IS NOW ASTIR ALL DAY

ENGINEERS, WHO REPRESENT
CASH FROM THE EAST VISIT
THE CLAIMS.

RAWHIDE, June 29.—This camp has not been making a great deal of noise of late, but the noise that it has been making is of the right kind—the noise of the hoist at work, the click and drill and the bellow of the east. And in a quite manner there has been another kind of noise, the noise which sounds like money. There have been and still are several deals under way; deals which mean money and the greater development of the camp. Two-thirds of the two major claims were taken over by J. C. Keene and his associates this week. There is a deal on for a slice of the Queen Mines Company, and there has been quite a decent block of the Kearns No. 2 stock gathered in by Eastern people.

Whether there has been a stir in camp notwithstanding that we had to contend with the failure of the bank and the temporary closing of another. Money which was used in one or two deals has been tied up, but that could not stop the business enterprise of the camp. Rawhide has always had one or another to contend with, but Rawhide spirit overcomes all obstacles, apparently, and the camp is right ahead.

There have been two pairs of engineers representing Eastern capital, who have examined the property of the Queen Mines Company, and the reports of the two pairs have been pretty much the same. Here is a story by one of the engineers, Mr. Merriman, who went down into the Kearns No. 2, which a mining man would hardly be expected to believe, which Mr. Merriman says that he did not believe himself, if he had been present and witnessed the sampling and the assays.

According to this authority, 18 feet of the rich streak in the drift of the 65-foot level went $54,000 a ton. That's the story.

The assay comes from the vein which has found the ribbon of almost pure gold a month ago, and the story of the ribbon was doubted until the following Thomas saw the samples themselves and beheld the gold in the white rock. The experts who examined the Kearns No. 2 in their reports praised the ore most highly, and agree that the ore is going to get the rich ore.

The shaft is down to the 300-foot level, the deepest mine in the camp. They are now cutting a station, and start a crosscut during the coming week. They have a crosscut in 90 feet from the shaft at the level, and Mr. Kearns predicts they will cut the high-grade ore in the next 10 feet. If this be true, then Rawhide has a mine with ore to confound. The Kearns No. 2 is the steadiest shipper in the camp and there is a rumor abroad there will be a dividend declared very near future.

The Belover-Smith lease on the Colton, which was brought over a month ago by Ohio parties, is turning out to be another big thing. The owners have not had much to say with regard to what they have been getting, but it was learned tonight in the drift at the 50-foot level, there is a very rich stringer of ore better than $2,000 a ton. And the stringer is lying alongside a stringer which goes from three to four feet in width, and the ore of which is valued at from $30 to $40 a ton. It is in nearly 100 feet.

Rawhide Indiana has produced some exceptionally beautiful ore during the week and was quite a deal on this property. Irving S. Rosenblatt, of San Francisco, came to Rawhide early in the week, saw specimens of ore on the property at Davis's Cigar Store, and decided to visit the mine. It happened the night he arrived there was a heavy snowing in the drift in the rich ore is being followed. The owners of the lease agreed to disturb the drift until the arrive buyer from San Francisco to see it. But the news of the find through the camp, and during the night high-graders got busy, and the morning shift went to work. There was no more high-grade in the snowballs on the hilltops. Superintendent Needham was a man, and he ordered the boys to get it, and all thoughts of sales were laid aside. Then the unexpected happened as usual. The first round opened up two feet of ore, all of which the high-grader was as plentiful as a case of diamonds. Needless to say, the deal was made. —Reno Journal.

OREGON MINE SOLD BY SHERIFF

ALBANY, Ore., June 29.—One of the most disastrous mining ventures ever launched in Western Oregon came to a climax this morning when the Sheriff of Linn County sold the Great Northern Gold Mine, located on the Blue River, in this county, for $3,875. The property a few years ago promised to become one of the best-paying mines in the State. It was capitalized at $1,000,000, and citizens of Albany and Eugene sank $54,000 in the venture. The property was sold today on two executions from Linn and Lane counties and was purchased by Colonel J. M. Williams, of Eugene.

MORMON MISSIONARIES FREED.
BERNE, June 29.—The Federal Court has, upon appeal from the lower court, ordered the release of four American Mormons convicted of preaching their doctrines. The court holds that they committed no offense and that propaganda is not punishable under the law.
